CARHART ON ELECTRICITY. He Explains the Phonomena of Electrical Movements. An audience of 350 interested students betened to Professor Carnart's second lecture in the university extension course on electricity, delivered in the high school last night. The main room of the high school had been arranged to seat 400 spectators and was almost entirely filted. The complicat-ed phenomena of electrical movements were lucidly and easily demonstrated and illustrated by means of a powerful stereoptican throwing exact repro-ductions of the various operations on a large screen. The views were supple-mented with diagrams on the blackboard, and these combined with the professor's clear explanations and quaint comparisons held the attention of the spectators and kept them inter-ested in the very obstruse subject. The fundamental phenomena of the sci-ence, now well understood by every schoolboy, were demonstrated by the professor with scholarly enthus asm. He warned his hearers against fie warned his hearers against thinking lightly of the fun-damental phenomera, for they are the basis upon which the entire science is built and in the early part of the century were among the ost marvelous discoveries ever made and are more important today than ever before. The professor discussed briefly primary and sacondary batteries and the origin of the voltaic cell. In speaking of polarization the pro-fessor lamented the lack of system in the nomenclature of the science, remarking that many of the most important terms were misnomers and confusing to the learner. He spoke at length on the system of measuring electro-motive force, instruments of such sensitive qualities having been devised as not to vary one-one thou-sandths of a volt. He also left a very finely made instrument of this kind for the high school. He explained briefly the value of the Daniell cell in producing constant current batteries, invented by Professor Daniell in 1836,

The St. Cecilia society gave its thirteenth artist recital in the Westminster Presbyterian church last evening, and the handsome edifice was filled with the members of the society, its patrons and friends. The artists engaged for the recital were George W. Morgan, the organist, of New York, his daughter, Miss Mand Morgan, harpist, and Mrs. Frank M. Davis of this city, soprano. The concert was delayed a few minutes on account of some trouble with the pumping apparatus upon, which the organ depends for power. The audience took the annoyance good naturedly and gave Mr.
Morgan a generous welcome when he appeared and began to play the fugue and chorus from "Israel in Egypt." Miss Morgan compels a delightful and sweet tone from the harp and, after playing "Autumn," she was given a hearty recall, to which she graciously responded. Mrs. Frank M. Davis never sang better than she did last evening. Her voice was powerful, her shading exquisite, and her light tones sweet and musical. She sang two numbers, and the audience, in a most emphatic manner, compelled her to respond with another selection. Mr. Morgan then executed a difficult selec-tion, entitled a "Fantasie on Themes," from Tanhauser, at the conclusion of which he and Miss Morgan, with the harp, joined in a Romanze by Oberthus, and in recognition of a recall, they played the "Blue Bells of Scotland" in a charming manner. Part two included the familiar overture to "William Tell," Miss Morgan in numbers from Hasseiman, the march from "Aida" on the organ, and concluding with a duo from "Largo" on the harp and organ, each selection receiving warm appreciation.

DINED AT THE CLUB

The Delta Kappa Epsilons Around the Board

REVIVE HAPPY COLLEGE DAYS

And Live Over Again the Romps and Joys of School Life at the Ann Arbor University-Members Present.

Under the glow of multi-colored lights, and amid the fragrance of rose and mayflower, the first annual dinner of the Western Michigan association of Delta Kappa Epsilon was held at the Peninsular club last evening. It was a pleasing and gratifying success. The association, a college fraternity, was recently organized in this city, and its jurisdiction extends over the western portion of Michigan. At the initial dinner, delegations were present from Detroit and other cities. College days were lived over sgain, and the fraterwere lived over sgain, and the frater-nity songs were song by youth and graybeard with an enthusiasm most in-spiring. This society is one of the most famous of college fra-ernities. It was founded at Yale in 1841, and now has thirty-five chapters in as many differ-ent colleges. Fraternity life in most of the colleges continues through the college course, and as the members of college course, and as the members of the society live together in the same house, friendships are formed which are close and lasting. Among the famous men who are members of the Delta Kappa Epsilon are the Hons. Wayne McVeagh, Francis A. Walker, Whitelaw Reid, Randsil L. Gibson, Robert T. Lincoln, John D. Long, Theodore Roosevelt, Justin Winsor, Theodore Winthrop, Henry Hitchcock, Carlton T. Lewis, Stewart L. Woodford, Edward Bellamy, Gen. Wager Swayne, Senator C. S. Brice, Congressman J. D. Warner, Cyrus Northrop, Julian Hawthorne and Bishop Dudley. Beautiful Decoration. college course, and as the members of Beautitul Decoration.

The lower dining room where the dinner was served last evening was beautifully decorated for the occasion with bunting representing the society colors. A handsome floral piece in mitation of the society badge was much admired. While the dinner was being discussed sweet music was discoursed by a mandolin orchestra, after which a few toasts were responded to by members of the association. The initial dinner was such a pronounced success that arrangements will be made whereby this will be a perma-nent annual feature of the association. Letters of regret were read from Judge Severens of the United States court, Judge Grant of the supreme court, Prof. E. A. Strong of the State Normal school and many other absent members of the society. The list of those present included the following

LINDERMULDER A CITIZEN. He Takes His Final Papers and Qualifies To Hold Office.

EDITOR HERALD-Observing an article in yesterday's HERALD under the caption, "Are Beyond Dispute," in which said article it is made apparent that Supervisor-elect Lindermulder is a citizen, and entitled to hold the office as supervisor, to which he was recently elected, and in order to stop all clamor and to satisfy the public on the point of citizenship of Lindermulder, your correspondent took the trouble to investigate the case, and found that Mr. Lindermulder had taken out his citizenship. zenship or final papers, so-called, last Wednesday, April 20, 1892, before the United States district court in this city. Thus, after he was elected to the office, and only three days ago. Thet Mr. Lindermulder took the advice of your correspondent, "to get off the fence," as appeared a few days ago in the columns of THE HERALD, there is no doubt. There is also no doubt that Mr. Lendermulder was not a citizen when ne was elected, and fearing that he could not qualify for the office the people had elected him to, he took the wise and safe course he nid, as above alluded to. He is now a full-fledged, naturalized citizen, and entitled to hold office. There are scores of others in the same boat as Mr. Lindermulder, and the agitation in THE HERALD has set them a-thinking, and they no doub! will complete their citizenship by fol-lowing the course Mr. Lindermulder took, and take out their final papers before May 1, next, in order to be en-titled to hold office, in case they should be ne minated, next fall for a position on the county or state ticket.

Bicycle News and Notes. There is serious talk among the prominent members of the Bicycle ciub of the formation of a business men's bicycle club, which shall make as its object the prevention of reckless riding in business thorougafares by arresting, prosecuting and laboring vigorously for the conviction of those who offend in this particular. The better class of wheelmen realize that it is for their interest to stop the reckless riding now indulged in by many wheelmen. Incidentally they will do all they can to encourage the laying of good roads in Kent county. The club will probably be formed this stimmer.

Wheelmen are worked up over the prospect that a resolution will probably soon be introduced into the council to further limit the already meagre side-walk privileges now enjoyed by them. They declare that they will fight it
